ABSTRACT

This bibliography was developed for use by teachers and administrators in international schools who need information on national systems of education for purposes of placement, counseling about further education, or planning curriculum programs. Each reference is coded by letter to indicate its primary contribution (A--counseling and placement, B--curriculum planning and administration, C--research). Users of the bibliography are cautioned that educational systems in many countries are in the process of continuous development and improvement. (Author)

The attached Bibliography was developed for use by teachers and administrators in International Schools who need information on national systems of education for purposes of placement, counseling about further education or planning curriculum programs. Each reference is coded by letter to indicate its primary contribution (A - counseling and placement, B - curriculum planning and administration, C - research). Users of the bibliography are cautioned that educational systems in many countries are in the process of continuous development and improvement. Trends indicating the development patterns of national systems can then be drawn but categorizations or strictly applied generalizations are quickly out-dated and can be easily, but inaccurately, drawn.
